Buckshot Riddles the Timberwork of the Mine and the Builets Whistle Uncomfortably Close to the Soldiers, Who Return the Fire and Charge Into the Brush

Leadville, Colo., Sept. 28.-Renewed rioting occurred here last night. The entire city was up and in arms. At 10 o'clock the military guard at the Bon Air mine, on Carbonate hill; was attacked. The pickets were driven in behind the stockades by a fusillade of lead fired from one of the dark recesses of the mountain. Buckshot riddled the timberwork of the mine and whistled close to the ears of the militiamen. The fire was returned, the heavy ring of the Springfield rifle sounded on the air, and in a few moments all Leadville was awake. Lieutenant Verdeckberg telephoned General Brooks that the guard had been driven in, and a few moments later the troops were turned out and started to the Bon Air on double time.

Infantry Makes a Bayanet Charge.

The shots from the Bon Air sounded like a hail. Lights flashed in all the windows of the town, and within half an hour the streets were filled with men, armed and ready to go to the mine, which is some little distance away. The exchange of shots was lively and lasted fully fifteen minutes. The attacking party was located in one spot, while the fire of the military was scattering and from different points along the guard line. A squad of infantry with fixed bayonets charged into the brush, but the assailants retreated rapidly before them and were soon silenced.

Occurred at an Inopportune Time.

This attack occurred at a time when the union was consulting for peace, and will have the effect of causing renewed enlistments to the ranks of the militla today. No one was injured among the troops. It is not known whether any of the rioters were killed or injured. It will be impossible to tell til later. Indignation prevails and it is the general opinion that this attack will bring forth a declaration of martial law.

Objective Point Was the Waterworks.

There have been rumors for the past few days that there would be renewed trouble, but this was scoffed at by the militiary. It is generally believed that the men who made the assault of last night were on their way to the waterworks for the purpose of tampering with the water supply of the city, and were discovered, when they opened fire on the guards. It is believed that the outbreak was caused by the arrival of workmen from the lead minese of Missouri Saturday, when twelve companies of military were necessary to conduct the men through the town.

Fireman and Rioter Buried.

The funeral of Jerry O'Keefe, the fireman murdered last Monday while turning a hose on the fire at the Coronado mine, occurred yesterday. It was the largest funeral procession ever seen here. The funeral of William Higgins, who was literally filled with buckshot while engaged in the attack on the Coronado, was from the same church and immediately following that of O'Keefe. Almost the entire miners' union, including fully 1,500 people, followed the remains to the cemetery.
